HEALING OLD SORES.

The much heralded "reconciliation" between former Presidents Roosevelt and Taft shows signs of having been a dramatic reuniting of two old hearts that had become estranged, and the country generally had come to picture a scene in which Theodore and Will should put their hands on each other's shoulder, retire to a cozy corner, talk it over and then come out and announce that they were as good friends as ever and each one trying to outdo the other in support of Charles E. Hughes.

Nothing of the sort happened. From the veracious accounts sent out by the Associated Press, one may infer that the two former presidents, after having been first searched for deadly weapons, were turned loose on the same floor of the Union League club building, while all present held their breath and hoped for the best. They met. "How do you do?" asked one. "How do you do?" replied the other. They shook hands. Then Colonel Roosevelt, we are told, turned his back on Mr. Taft and began talking to some one else.

Quizzed regarding the matter after it was over, Mr. Taft remarked that he and Colonel Roosevelt had done only what any two gentlemen would do under the circumstances. Colonel Roosevelt declined to express an opinion or to make any reference to the matter at all.

In the language of the streets, that was "some reconciliation." One can imagine the rush of feeling that came over each—the warm glow of affection that suffused and illuminated the countenances of both—on this remarkable occasion. Only the presence of Charles W. Fairbanks, that other emotional statesman of the old guard, was needed to complete a scene that would have made a three-cornered Damon and Pythias attraction to cause any moving picture magazine to turn livid with envy.

The extent of the reconciliation seems to be that Colonel Roosevelt did not tell Mr. Taft to his face that he was a political porch-climber and a corrupter of the vote, and that Mr. Taft did not call Colonel Roosevelt any of the best expressive but equally vehement names that he used as descriptive of his opponent for the republican nomination at this time. What the two gentlemen think of each other does not, on the face of the record, seem to have undergone any radical change.

It is significant, by the way, that the last prior meeting of the two ex-presidents was at a funeral. Each must have been reminded of the funeral by the atmosphere that pervaded the scene of their reconciliation. However, they are getting on. At the funeral they merely shook hands and did not speak. At the reconciliation they not only shook hands but said, "How do you do?" Who knows what progress they may yet make?

Yes, it's a beautiful climate we are enjoying just now, but let us not forget to impress upon the beautiful easterner that climate isn't all that New Mexico has.

"DISLOYAL SUPPORT."

The Philadelphia Public Ledger is fighting President Wilson vigorously but it has words of warm approval of his reply to the O'Leary message. The Public Ledger says:

"President Wilson's prompt and definite repudiation of disloyal support embodied in his reply to an impudent message from the president of the American Truth society, was a timely, just and well-deserved rebuke. There has been too much talk during the present political campaign of foreign sympathies and their bearing upon the verdict of American citizens upon governmental policies. And there has been a deliberate attempt to revive the narrow and mischievous spirit of 'Know-nothingism' in this country, an attempt that will inevitably react upon those who are employing it. There is no room here as an element in our political life for 'anti-British,' 'anti-German,' 'anti-Irish' or any other type of propaganda based on foreign animosities and prejudices, and the same objection will lie against the corollary to this spirit, the pro-foreign nationalism. The foreign relations and policies of the government undoubtedly are issues in the present political campaign, but they are to be settled solely on the basis of what is best for America, not what will serve the interests of some foreign power. The support of a disloyal cause and a menace to both parties will be the ruin when their leaders have the honesty and the courage to repudiate it. Neither the president nor Mr. Hughes is seeking or desiring of 'disloyal support,' whatever may be the mendacious assertions of partisans to the contrary."

However, everybody will admit that "Cap" Gilgewater knows as much about sound banking as Gregory Page does about prohibition.

A CONTRAST.

Since those who are endeavoring to bring about the election of Frank A. Hubbell as United States senator and John O. Bursum as governor insist on making Governor McDonald the principal issue in the campaign, and since the governor has not only raised no objection to this course but has welcomed the opportunity to defend his administration, it might be well to contrast the condition of the state of New Mexico at the present time and before McDonald was elected governor.

It is no exaggeration to say that the state has made more real progress under the McDonald administration than it made for the twenty years preceding its beginning. The people have been prosperous, the schools have been kept up to a standard hitherto unknown, there has been an unexampled era of development in road building, and in everything that goes to make a people happy and well-to-do the conditions have been such as to leave little room for improvement. In governmental affairs there has not been the slightest suspicion of graft. The square deal has been the standard by which all matters in dispute were decided. Economy and efficiency have prevailed in all administrative affairs.

Under the regime of politicians of the Hubbell-Bursum type New Mexico was perhaps the worst governed community in the United States. The school teacher might be able to read and write, or he might not, but it was essential that he be in with the bosses if he expected to hold his job. There was practically no road system. Taxation was unjust, unequal and burdensome to the masses while falling lightly if at all on the favored few. Straits honeycombed the state government from top to bottom.

The outfit of Hubbellism may contrive to hide its stupid head under a venomous attack on Governor McDonald, but it will never be able to conceal from view its own hideous outlines or make the people of New Mexico forget its sinister meaning.

It's a pity Thanksgiving day doesn't come before election. Then everybody could enjoy it.

DESPERATE STRAITS.

To such desperate straits are some of the kept newspapers of the Hubbell-Bursum combination reduced that they are quoting from paid advertising matter inserted in the Journal by their own campaign committee and endeavoring to make their readers believe that these statements are editorial expressions of this paper. It is not a high compliment that they pay to the intelligence of their readers to suppose that they would "fall for" such a trick, but it is the fact they can do under the circumstances.

It would be useless, of course, to waste words in comment on political methods of this sort. The reader who can not discriminate between a paid advertisement and an editorial expression would not be apt to understand either if it were explained to him. Perhaps, however, it is such readers who make it possible for the kept newspapers of the Hubbell-Bursum combination to continue publication.

Trust is lost. So it proved with the Montezuma Trust.

Notes of Interest From State Museum

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE TO MORNING JOURNAL)
Santa Fe, Oct. 4.—Miss Helen Dunlop, the Los Angeles artist, who spent the summer in this part of New Mexico yesterday afternoon exhibited her paintings of Tano and Navaho, including a number of striking Indian portraits. Mr. Robert Henry at the same time gave a critique, such as he gives his art classes in New York, which proved to be the most interesting lecture on art ever given in the old palace. Miss Dunlop's pictures are high in color and are most interesting compositions. She left for Los Angeles yesterday afternoon but is expected to return to this country after she will return in December.

Mrs. H. G. Ferguson, the artist, after spending the summer in this vicinity, left for her home at Washington, D. C., yesterday afternoon. Mr. Ferguson will remain at Montezuma for the time being doing geological research work for the government.

Formal presentation to the School of American Archaeology of a superb painting by Mr. Robert Henry will take place within the next two weeks. The presentation is to be made a social event and the picture will be exhibited for several days. It will form part of the collection for the art gallery in the new museum building.

He is so pleased with Santa Fe that he expects to spend next summer here and from this point expects to visit the Utah national bridges and the Navajo reservation.

CLUB WOMEN DISCUSS LEGISLATIVE MATTERS

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE TO MORNING JOURNAL)
East Las Vegas, N. M., Oct. 4.—A large attendance and unusual interest in the matter of legislation affecting women and children and the advancement of New Mexico was shown at the annual meeting of the state federation of women's club now in session here. Prohibition, woman's suffrage and property rights of women were to be discussed and some recommendations made to the legislature. Charles A. Spruce, State Senator from Barth and Dr. R. E. McBride are on the program for addresses on interesting topics.

The delegates and visitors were guests at a luncheon Wednesday at noon, and will be taken Thursday afternoon to a picnic at the Hot Springs. So far there has been no apparent indication that politics will be injected into the meeting in the election of officers. The election, however, is not to occur for two days.

Governor to Make Speech.
Santa Fe, Oct. 4.—Governor McDonald is to be one of the speakers before the democratic county convention on Saturday. It is expected that he will then answer the charges made in reference to the failure of the bank at Las Cruces, which has been made an issue by the republicans in the present campaign.

Teachers Make Headway.
Santa Fe, Oct. 4.—"Teacherages" are making headway in New Mexico. Talban is the latest district to hold a school. The district is called "teacherage" and is included in the $2,000,000 modern school house the district is erecting according to word to the department of education today.

FORTNIGHTLY CLUB WILL ENTERTAIN WITH MUSICAL ARTISTS

Albuquerque is to have a big musical artists course this year. The Fortnightly Club has made arrangements to have Rudolph Gars, Florence Schubert and Cecil Fleming meet between November and April, and there is a very strong probability that Frances Ingram will be added to the list.

Both Miss Macbeth and Mr. Fanning are Americans. "The Minnesota Nightingale," as Miss Macbeth is frequently called, is a celebrated soprano and has made a great reputation, not only in America but also in England. She is a member of the Chicago Grand Opera Company.

Mr. Fanning is one of the products of Oberlin college, and is probably the most popular baritone on the American concert stage. Both his voice and manner are very appealing and he makes enthusiastic friends wherever he goes. This is not his first appearance in New Mexico, as he has already sung in Santa Fe.

Mr. Gars is one of the really great pianists in America today. Like his confreres, Godowsky, Gieseler, and Bauer, he is now spending all his time in this country either on tour or teaching. Mr. Gars is a Swiss and made his first visit to this country in 1912. He is the former teacher of Mrs. Mabel Spence Brown, and Albuquerque will welcome him more particularly on that account.

If the club, looking the musical course can secure Miss Ingram, the members will feel entitled to wear feathers in their bonnets for Miss Fanning, next after November, was a sensation of Chicago's grand opera season last year, and will give with that organization again this winter.

Not across the Schumann-Heink-Brahms-Kreisler course in 1916, has Albuquerque attempted an ambitious art season, but the low price asked for the four numbers practically guarantees success.

Counties Report School Census

Santa Fe, Oct. 4.—Elbert and Roosevelt counties are the only ones of the twenty-six who have thus far reported the result of their school census last month to the department of education. Union county this year has 2,892 pupils as against 2,275 in 1915, a gain of more than 10 per cent. Roosevelt county reports 3,024 persons between the ages of 5 and 21, as against 2,871 last year. These figures give an intimation of the growth of population in both counties, and which is believed to be almost altogether democratic in sentiment.

CALOMEL TODAY, SICK TOMORROW

Dose of nasty calomel makes you sick and you lose a day's work.

Calomel salivates! It's mercury. Calomel acts like dynamite on a stomach liver. When calomel comes into contact with your bile it crashes into it, causing cramping and nausea. If you feel bilious, headache, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your drugstore and get a 50 cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic, which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

If you take calomel today you'll be sick and nauseated tomorrow, besides, it may salivate you, while if you take Dodson's Liver Tonic you will wake up feeling great, full of ambition and ready for work or play. It's harmless, pleasant and safe to give to children; they like it.

UNION PACIFIC SHOWS BIG EARNING INCREASE

(BY MORNING JOURNAL SPECIAL LEARNED WIRE)
New York, Oct. 4.—The annual report of the Union Pacific railroad company for the year ended June 30, last, made public today, showed earnings of $10,000,000, compared with $9,900,000 the previous year.

Total revenue of $104,717,000 shows an increase of $17,555,710; net revenue after taxes of $49,825,526 is an increase of $10,643,430; total income of $54,127,375 is an increase of $10,643,430 and the surplus after charges of $28,777,507 is increased by $10,254,945.

Surplus after additions and betterments of $13,487,950 marks an increase of $7,843,818. There was a net increase in assets of $18,556,972, and a net decrease in liabilities of $11,816,297. At the end of the fiscal year the company had $12,234,369 cash in treasury, $11,506,000 in time deposits and $16,768,505 in loans, this representing a gain of $18,447,790 in funds during the year.

Reviewing the operations for the year, Chairman Robert S. Lovett said, in part:

"Operating revenues for the year are the largest in the history of the Union Pacific system. This extraordinary increase is due to the business revival affecting all lines of traffic which set in along our territory October 1, 1915, and the curtailment of shipping through Pacific coast ports and our Atlantic ports on account of the withdrawal of ships to more profitable lines as a result of the European war and the closing of the Panama canal."

Chairman Lovett points out that these conditions still exist.

L. & N. HAS GREATEST YEAR IN ITS HISTORY.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 4.—The Louisville & Nashville Railroad company closed the greatest year in its history on June 30, according to the report of President Milton H. Smith at the annual stockholders' meeting here today. Its gross operating revenues for the fiscal year were $69,817,931, an increase of $8,711,759 over the previous year and $11,157 over the year ending June 30, 1914, the best previous record.

"Meat Prices Will Not Come Down"

is the cheerful news that comes from the Department of Agriculture. Meat prices will not worry the man or woman who knows that a Shredded Wheat Biscuit will supply more real body-building nutriment than beefsteak or eggs and at much less cost. Shredded Wheat remains the same price, the same high quality, supplying all the nutriment a man needs for a half day's work. Two shredded wheat biscuits with peaches and cream or other fruits make a complete, nourishing meal at a cost of not over five cents. Made at Niagara Falls, N. Y.

rapidly and reached a point lower than it has indicated for many weeks, indicating that a storm is brewing for the southwest. The velocity of the wind also crept up to almost thirty miles an hour this afternoon driving dust clouds before it.

Krumbles is made from selected Durum wheat, the whole of the wheat, cooked, "krum-bled" and delicately toasted.
